IRRADIANCE.
"THERE MAY BE SOME DEMOCRATS PRESENT WHO ARE REPENTANT AND I LIKE TO PREACH TO SINNERS. YOU HAVE HEARD OF THE FELLOW WHO SAID, 'I CAME NOT TO CALL THE RIGHTEOUS, BUT SINNERS, TO REPENTANCE.'"—Delano, Grant's Secretary of Interior, in his speech at Raleigh.

IN THIS FAITH, AND WITH THE DISTINCT UNDERSTANDING THAT IF ELECTED, I SHALL BE THE PRESIDENT, NOT OF A PARTY, BUT OF THE WHOLE PEOPLE, I ACCEPT YOUR NOMINATION IN THE CONFIDENT TRUST THAT THE MASSES OF OUR COUNTRYMEN, NORTH AND SOUTH, ARE EAGER TO CLASP HANDS ACROSS THE BLOODY CHASM, WHICH HAS TOO LONG DIVIDED THEM, FORGETTING THAT THEY HAVE BEEN ENEMIES, IN THE JOYFUL CONSCIOUSNESS THAT THEY ARE, AND MUST HEREAFTER REMAIN, BROTHERS.
—HORACE GREELEY.

"We want a President without a party; a government without corruption; a Congress without price; and a Judiciary without politics."—B. Grant Brown.

EDITORIAL GLEANINGS.
The government has ordered a thorough investigation into the causes of the late terrible steamboat disasters. This is a step in the right direction.

EXTENSIVE preparations have been made in Louisville for the grand Peace Reunion to take place in that city to-day and to-morrow.

SEMI-OFFICIAL returns from nearly all the towns of Vermont make the Radical majority 25,018. In 1870 the remaining towns gave 110 majority. The Senate is unanimously Republican. The House stands 207 Republicans, 21 Democrats-Liberals.

GEN. BANKS, in a recent speech in Maine, defined his position. He is for Greeley in preference to Grant because he believed Greeley would restore order, peace and an honest government. The continuance of the present condition of affairs would deprive the whole people of their liberties.

THE latest news from our neighboring Republic of Mexico looks favorable to the restoration of public order under the Presidency of Lerdo. General Diaz demands certain terms from the government—personal, political and national—as part of the condition under which he will lay down his arms and return to his duty of allegiance.

THEY have had a new order of excitement in Mexico, and at the same time a new style of chivalry. Two women, jealous of each other in love, recently fought a duel, which terminated fatally to one of the combatants. They were armed with daggers, the victorious lady using a weapon made from horn. The duel was fought according to the rules of the code, with other women as seconds. We hope the custom will be confined to Mexico.

SOME two years have passed since the Nathan murder, one of the foulest crimes that was ever committed in the city of New York, and yet the murderer has escaped the clutches of the guardians of the peace. The whole matter has been again brought before the public however, by the recent arrest in Washington of one Billy Forrester, with a half dozen aliases. It is acknowledged that Forrester is a man of terrible character, but there is no positive proof to connect him with the murder of Nathan.

It is reported from Madrid that a regular system of agitation in opposition to slavery is to be organized in Spain. Public meetings are to be held in all the principal cities, and petitions for the abolition of slavery in the colonies will be circulated, which will be presented to the Cortes as soon as it meets. That early action may be taken. There will be one hundred and forty-four ministerial and eighteen opposition members in the new Senate. Carlist bandits are again making trouble in Catalonia, the people enforcing demands upon the king for food and arms.

THE EFFECT OF THE LOUISVILLE BUBBLE.

The Louisville Straight-Out Convention, its purposes and designs, the manner in which it was called, the individuals who inaugurated and controlled it, the circumstances under which it was held, the delegates who participated in its proceedings, and the results of its deliberations, are now matters of political record, and fit subjects for thought and criticism.

We propose chiefly to consider its effect upon the present situation of affairs.

If the movement had been adroitly and skillfully managed—at the men who superintended and directed its operations had possessed the confidence and commanded the respect of the Democratic party, it might have been made the entering wedge to split the party asunder, and thus have succeeded in detaching enough of its forces to thwart the plans of the Baltimore Convention, and to secure the overwhelming triumph of the Radical party in the November election.

But failure was stamped upon the movement at its inception. Defeat stared it in the face from the very start. Brick Pomeroy, and Blanton Duncan, and their followers, were not the men to cause a respectable breach in the ranks of the National Democratic party. It required men of higher character, of larger brains, of more extended influence, of greater reputation, and more common sense.

As soon as the time and place of meeting were published, the Radicals immediately went to work to make the affair a success. Edmunds, Grant's Post Master at Washington City, was particularly industrious in circulating Blanton Duncan's call. He mailed it to his Radical friends in different parts of the country, with written instructions that they should circulate it among the "most active Democrats in their respective neighborhoods."

This trick was quickly discovered and thoroughly ventilated by the Liberal and Democratic papers.

The next dodge of the Grantites was to buy up spurious impecunious Democratic delegates, pay their expenses to Louisville and send them on their way rejoicing, with a bran new outfit.

It was soon found out that many of the so-called delegates had never been appointed by any meetings at all, and in some instances they were in fact Radicals. This made the whole affair a cheat and swindle, and rendered it out of the power of its leaders to redeem it from contempt and disgrace.

The only decent thing the Convention did, during its session of three days, was the nomination of O'Connor and Adams. These gentlemen are of acknowledged ability, character and influence, and if they had been nominated by the National Democratic party at Baltimore, would have deserved and no doubt received the hearty support of our party. They are both competent and honest, and are personally unobjectionable.

But O'Connor persistently refuses to accept the empty honor of the nomination for the Presidency, and Adams says he (Adams) will only serve as Vice President under O'Connor—that he will have nothing else.

The declaration of O'Connor necessarily retires Adams from the field. So that there is and has been in fact no nomination at all at Louisville. The Convention finally degenerated into a farce, and has dissolved, "like the baseless fabric of a dream."

Now as to the effect of the Straight-Out movement upon the Presidential contest. We are firmly of the opinion that it has ensured to the benefit of the Liberal cause.

The bursting of the bubble has demonstrated the impracticability of inaugurating a successful revolt inside the Democratic camp. It has demonstrated that the heart of the Democracy is in the Liberal cause. It has demonstrated that, with the exception of a few stragglers, the rank and file of our party are in line marching in solid phalanx, and presenting a bold, determined, united front against Radicalism.

THE GOLDSBORO MESSENGER.

The Raleigh Era on Saturday alluded to a rumor of an alleged combination between the Goldsboro Messenger and Wm. A. Smith, Congressman elect from this district, looking to the election to the Senate of the latter gentleman, the Era expressing its doubt as to the truth of the rumor. The Messenger of Monday thus refers to the matter:

"We confess that we don't comprehend the language of the Era, unless a rumor to that effect has been circulated by some black-hearted villain. No, Mr. Era, your faith is well founded. Never count on the support of the Messenger for Maj. Smith, or any other Republican, to go to the United States Senate, and we trust that not a Conservative member elect would even entertain such an idea. Indeed, we have not the least cause to think that Maj. Smith himself, ever expected such support from this paper. Our greatest victory consists in the defeat of John Pool, and it will only be complete when his seat is occupied by some good and true Democrat or Conservative, and this the Messenger demands."

More and more apparent is it that the German vote will be cast almost solidly for Greeley and Brown.

THE RADICAL VICE-PRESIDENT—CANDIDATE IN A DILEMMA.

We have already alluded to the manner in which Hon. Henry Wilson, the Radical candidate for Vice President, was caught napping in regard to his connection with Know-Nothingism.

It will be remembered by our readers that Wilson, in answering a letter addressed to him by some of his German fellow-citizens, denied, in the most emphatic manner, that he ever belonged to the Know-Nothing party; but stated on the contrary, he had always opposed the dangerous principles laid down in the Know-Nothing platform.

This startled Wilson's Massachusetts friends, many of whom have a lively remembrance of his connection with the so-called American party in 1855. Hon. Albert Pike, a Know-Nothing High Priest, immediately published a communication, refreshing Wilson's memory, and referring to the National Know-Nothing Convention in Philadelphia, in 1855, in which Wilson figured conspicuously, and assisted in framing the party's platform. Other letters from different individuals were published sustaining Col. Pike, and proving incontestably that Wilson was a regular and sworn member of the Know-Nothing organization. In one instance, a writer offered to name the time and place, the oath that was administered to Wilson, and the person by whom it was administered.

This was too much for the would-be Vice President. The proof against him was so positive and overwhelming that he was forced to make some explanation. He says that he did not write the letter to the Germans himself, but it was written by his intimate and confidential political friend, Mr. Hermann Askensay, who often aids him in his correspondence.

But Senator Wilson was fully cognizant of the fact that the letter had been written to the Germans. He knew the contents of the letter. He permitted his friend to sign his name, and has thus been guilty of a piece of deception and trickery little less criminal than if he had signed the actual falsehood.

It is a maxim of the law that "facit per alium, facit per se," but Wilson's case is even stronger than this, because he knew that his secretary had written and signed his name, with his own approval, to a positive and transparent falsehood!

Wilson's character, in this transaction, has been so seriously damaged that it will be a difficult matter for him to retrieve it.

JUDGE MERRIMON AND THE RADICAL PRESS.

The Radical press of the State has recently been making the assertion that Judge Merrimon had declared his intention not to contest the late election before the next Legislature. We are aware of the fact that Judge Merrimon is, in the name of the people of the State, demanding a thorough investigation into the manner of the late election, and if fraud be discovered, of which we have not a particle of doubt, then the contest will be made in spite of the assertions of the Era that war will be made in such an event.

Nor will the effort that is being made to induce Judge Merrimon to refrain from the contest, with the hope of receiving higher promotion, be successful. Judge Merrimon has at heart not only the good of the people of the State, but will carry out in good faith the favorable opinions which he won in the late campaign, and will demand, in the name of the people, that the ballot box be purged of the immense frauds which are practiced upon it, and that if he has been elected by the honest vote of the State, he be seated as Governor of the State of North Carolina.

THE PRESIDENTIAL CONTEST.

The subjoined statement of the probable result of the November election will be found of peculiar interest, as it gives something upon which to base the positive result. Scarcely a doubt can be entertained of any of the States which are set down to Greeley, while the doubtful ones can be added to those given to Grant, and yet leave a positive majority in the Electoral College for Greeley. A number of those set down as doubtful will probably go for Greeley:

THE RESULT IN MAINE.

The battle in Maine has been fought, resulting in a Republican victory, as no other result could have been anticipated. A large vote has been polled, some 126,500, against 105,897 in 1871, and against some 137,000 for Governor in 1868. The Republican majority this year will approximate 15,000, while in 1868 it reached 19,273 for Governor, and some 26,000 for Grant the same year. In 1871 the Republican majority was 10,707, while the Republican vote was some 13,000 less than it will be this year.

The result has been about what was claimed by the Liberal Reform movement, and shows that with the desperate efforts of the Grantites to poll up the largest Republican vote that has ever been given in Maine, that yet they fell short of the Grant vote of 1868 some 10,000 votes, and some 4,000 behind the vote for Governor the same year.

"OUR ALLIES—THE LIBERAL REPUBLICAN."

Under this caption, our able contemporary, the Wilmington Journal, has the following sensible reasoning:

"We are not of that class of men who think that the action of the Cincinnati and Baltimore Conventions, in uniting upon Mr. Greeley as a candidate for the Presidency, brought about such a fusion of Liberals and Democrats as to destroy their identity and individuality as members of separate and distinct organizations."

"According to our understanding of the matter, the theory upon which the Liberal Republicans and the Democrats are now acting together, is a very different one, and a brief reference to the facts will, we think, prove the correctness of our view."

"Democrats took no part in the Cincinnati Convention. Liberal Republicans took no part in the Baltimore Convention. Each party continues to operate through its own organizations and its own officers. We have both State and National Executive Committees, representing, on the one hand, the Democratic and on the other the Liberal Republican party. In North Carolina, Hon. D. M. Barringer is the Chairman of the one, while W. S. Mason is at the head of the other. It is true that these committees are working together in the most harmonious manner, but this is the result of an alliance and not of a fusion. General Barringer is still a Democrat, and Mr. Mason is still a Republican."

"This is a matter of far more importance, in some respects, at the North than it is at the South, for the reason that the number of Liberal Republicans, properly so-called, is quite small in the South. In fact, it may be safely said that many, if not all the prominent members of the Liberal Republican organization in North Carolina have, for several years, voted with the Democratic Party. Indeed, we consider the action of the Democratic Party in thus formally recognizing the existence of the Liberal Republican organization in North Carolina as the result of a magnanimous and generous determination on the part of Democrats to carry out, in both letter and spirit, the alliance entered into with the people at the North. Had it been otherwise, or had there been a fusion instead of an alliance, Messrs. Mason and Goodloe, and the half dozen other gentlemen who inaugurated the Liberal movement in North Carolina, would have been swallowed up and lost sight of with their few hundred followers in the ninety odd thousands of Democrats in the State."

"But it is a habit of Southern men, not only to do gracious things, but to do them graciously. 'The Southern people, therefore, would not dim the splendor of the offering they had made, with the care sent, laying, as a propitiatory sacrifice upon the altar of a grief-stricken country, the lives, the hopes and the sorrows as well as the hates, the bitter prejudices and the baser passions of the heart of hearts, they proposed to unite in bonds of friendship with men whom they had learned to look upon as the deadliest enemies of themselves and of their country.' Southern men were not little to be won by the magnificence of a spectacle such as the world had never before witnessed, by higgling about the details of its exhibition."

"And we are free to confess that we have lost nothing by our magnanimity; for unless the signs of the times deceive us, we shall receive for our candidate the votes of a sufficient number of men who would not have voted for a man supported by Democrats alone, to turn the scale in North Carolina in November, even supposing the nominal majority of Caldwell to be a real one."

BEAUTY.

Oh, tell me not the savage look,
That it should claim no friend;
That loving hearts and gentle souls
With hideous forms may blend.
Say not that though that lovely face,
Lit up by pure blue eyes,
May speak a soul made callous quite,
By crime of deepest dyes.

Nor yet tell me the savage look,
The vicious, mean, or low,
May speak not of the inner man,
Since nature made it so.
Nay, tell me not that beauty's vain,
That features do not tell,
As faces at the window-pane,
Who in that house may dwell.
